PRESIDENTS CORNER:

Well here it is almost fall again - time to tune up the rig for the winter and get that antenna up before the snow flies. Field Day has passed into history once more. I guess we didn't set any all time records for points, but we all had a good time so it was a success from that angle. We had a few troubles rain and wind and balky generators and relays that got stuck, but is all part of Field Day. Those of us who took part know the thrill of it and the rangs of frustration that are part of it (THATS FIELD DAY). The bugs and poison ivy, the lack of sleep and the hard work. In return what do we get? Well, the good fellowship, the thrill of a QSO and the great store of practice things we learn. Those who stayed at home missed it all, but for those of us who got out the memories of Field Day live for a long time like all other good things. Many thanks to all those who contributed, those who were there and those who helped us in so many ways. Special thanks to Bob Murphy and Alex Vellaman. The September meeting will be your last chance to get a ticket on the converter, the draw will be at this meeting.

The auction starts at 7:30 sharp and we have a lot of good stuff lined up, so bring lots of money and lots of junk. C.A.B. will be the auctioneer unless you can think of some one with more wind (I can't). The nominating committee will be formed at this meeting also.

LATEST ON AREC: Here we are again about to step up our haming activities for the fall and winter season aftet the usual summel lull. Hope that you all have enjoyed the summer hollidays and that enough vim and vigour has been gathered to enable those with the old problems of TVI antenna space etc. to lick them. hi hi. The past spring and summer has been a bad one for the natural type of disaster where ham radio can do a good job of patching up disabled communications, and if prepared. The tornado at Sarnia was a real test and from all reports the boys down that way did a F.B. job. For full information on the tornado situation and the job done by A.R.E.C. and the lossons learned there from look to pages 62 thru 67 of August Qst, a lot interesting reading is there fellows. Best of luck fellows, see you at the September meeting. - Ross VE3AUU
